

User Interviews

User interviews are one of the most flexible research tools available to the UX profession. They are used in multiple phases of the design process to gather information from experts, users and other stakeholders.

